

2010

State Law Report Card

Arizona

A protection order is a FREE court order that can protect you from an abusive dating partner. This order can prevent your current or ex-partner from:

- Threatening or abusing you
- Contacting or coming near you or your family
- Coming to your school, home or work
- Possessing a gun

The order may also require your current or ex-partner to:

- Move out of your home
- Give you use of shared personal property
- Participate in counseling or a batterer's intervention program
- Do anything else the court finds is necessary for your protection

A protection order can be changed if things in your life change (for example, if you transfer to a new school or get a new job).

You can get a protection order against someone who:

- You are or were dating, living with, or married to OR
- You have a child with OR
- You are related to by blood or marriage

The law requires you to show that your current or ex-partner:

- Threatened to, attempted to or actually physically abused you OR
- Stalked or harassed you OR
- Destroyed your property OR
- If you are under 12 years old, sexually abused you

Other types of abuse may also qualify you for a protection order.

If you are under 18 years old, your parent or another adult acting as your guardian may go to court with you to file for a protection order on your behalf. Arizona law does not say at what age you can file for a protection order on your own behalf. If you are able to file on your own behalf, the law does not say whether the court has to notify your parent/guardian if you receive a protection order.

This is the law in your state only. The law is different in every state.

What other laws do you need to know about?

All teens can consent to:

- Birth control services
- Testing and treatment for sexually transmitted infections
- Adoption

If you are a minor, you must have your parent's consent to have an abortion.

What are schools doing about dating violence?

Arizona law does not include any information about dating violence in schools.

How can Arizona improve its response to teen dating violence?

- Allow all minors to file for protection orders without parental involvement.
- Allow courts to issue protection orders to minors over 12 years old who have been sexually abused.
- Allow all minors to access health services without parental involvement.
- Require schools to include dating violence education in health classes in all middle schools and high schools.

Break the Cycle

Empowering Youth to End Domestic Violence

If you or someone you know is experiencing abuse in their relationship go to www.thesafespace.org